Overview

Brittney Shreffler is a member of the Business and Real Estate & Construction law practice groups.

She represents developers, owners, and other users in a wide range of commercial real estate transactions, including acquisition, financing, development, leasing, disposition, and land use.

Brittney's clients include local and regional developers, real estate investment trusts, health care organizations, public school districts, and other businesses in a variety of industries. In addition, Brittney is experienced in advising closely-held businesses on a broad range of business matters, including corporate formation, reorganization, and governance, mergers and acquisitions, and sales, license, distribution, other commercial agreements.

Brittney understands that each client and project is unique and tailors her approach to each project based on the client's goals and objectives. Brittney offers practical solutions to her clients in a timely manner and is driven by her clients' successes.
